The Army Cadet Force

The Army Cadet Force (ACF) is one of the UK's largest voluntary youth organizations. It has over 41,000 teenage cadets and 9,500 adult volunteers in over 1,600 locations in the UK.

We have helped thousands of boys and girls aged 12–18 years old to change their lives. Many young people are missing out on challenges in life. We challenge our Army Cadets to try new things. Your background and abilities aren't important to us. We encourage you to believe in yourself and to do your best.

In the ACF there's lots of action and adventure. You'll have fun and make great friendships along the way. Rock climbing and mountain biking are just some of the adventurous activities you can do, as well as playing many of your favourite sports. From the age of sixteen you can even take qualifications in some of these activities.

During your time in the ACF, you'll train for the Army Proficiency Certificate, which gets more challenging each year. Although you won't be part of the army, for one or two evenings a week you'll learn some of the skills a soldier needs. You'll also be able to do a lot for the community. You'll help with community projects, which will help you understand how important community is. Projects include building a children's play area, clearing rubbish from riverbanks or planting trees.

Don't worry! You won't have to leave. You can become an adult volunteer. In a survey of adult volunteers, over 80 per cent said they had gained new skills that were beneficial to their job or in finding a job. So join now for a rewarding and fun experience!
